

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to compositions and methods for treating depression. The compositions and methods comprise the use of anti-inflammatory compounds alone or in combination with antidepressant compounds to down regulate HPA activation through the targeting of peripheral (non-CNS) cytokines.